In an attempt to close information gaps for our esteemed members and operators in the tourism sector on various permits and licences required for one to register as a tourism enterprise, Malawi Tourism Council in collaboration with the Malawi Institute of Tourism with support from GIZ GmbH have developed this information brochure to assist new industry entrants and established small, medium and micro enterprises (SMMEs) whether local or international, who are interested in participating in Malawi’s tourism industry.

Isabel Tamanda Chakhumbira, Executive Director

Entrepreneurship is the symbol of business tenacity and achievement; it is a vital source of change in all facets of society. With the advent and swift developments in the tourism and hospitality sector and the forces of globalization, the world has become a global village, characterized by an explosive growth in international business and competition. Achieving inclusion in the global economy poses innumerable and substantial challenges for our graduates and industry players in Malawi, particularly in relation to successful business management.

The Malawi Institute of Tourism in collaboration with Malawi Tourism Council with support from GIZ GmbH have developed this information brochure on entrepreneurship, as a tool geared to support industry players and prospective entrepreneurs to establish viable commercial enterprises and tap into unexplored business opportunities.

• Employed individuals wishing to become entrepreneurs in the tourism/hospitality sector.

Part two of this booklet may also be relevant to:

• Individuals new to the industry who are managing or overseeing existing tourism businesses

• Potential small scale, international/national investors and entrepreneurs interested in becoming stakeholders in Malawi’s tourism industry

This booklet is a joint publication between Malawi Tourism Council (MTC) and Malawi Institute of Tourism (MIT).
Travel and Tourism is one of the largest and fastest growing industries in the world. The industry contributes to the country’s economy in direct, indirect and induced ways. Direct contribution refers to production and consumption of tourist commodities such as accommodation, transport, entertainment, attractions, the industries that surround them. Indirect contribution concerns the Travel and Tourism investment and collective government spending, and supplier purchasing revenue. Induced contribution refers to the spending of money by direct and indirect employees of the Travel and Tourism industry. In this handbook, we refer to the total contribution which is the contribution to Gross Domestic Product (GDP) and to employment in Malawi.

In 2017, the total contribution of Travel and Tourism industry to Malawi’s GDP was MWK 345,281 million (USD 481.5 million), 7.7% of GDP. This is higher than the average contribution of the industry to GDP for Sub-Saharan Africa (7.1%). The total contribution to Malawi’s GDP is expected to rise to MWK 563,026 million (USD 785.1 million) in 2028 (+63%).

The total contribution of the Travel and Tourism industry to employment in Malawi in 2017 was 524,500 jobs, 6.7% of total employment, again higher than the average for Sub-Saharan Africa (5.8%). The total contribution to employment in Malawi is expected to rise to 707,000 jobs by 2028 (+35%).

In terms of long-term growth of Malawi’s Travel and Tourism industry, the World Travel & Tourism Council (WTTC) ranked Malawi almost in the top third of the world (66 out of 185 countries), significantly higher than South Africa (121 out of 185 countries).

In 2016 almost 850,000 international tourist arrivals were registered. 76% from Africa, 14% from Europe and 6% from North America. Business is by far the most important purpose of travel (72%). Consequently, nearby countries like Mozambique (33%), Zimbabwe (12%) or Zambia (8%) are the major source markets.

MTC had 120 members in 2017 which were comprised of: 90 accommodation providers, 10 tour operators, 5 car hire agencies and the balance being other businesses like restaurants, catering providers and investments companies.

2 World Tourism Organization (UNWTO), Yearbook of Tourism Statistics 2017
3 Malawi Tourism Council, Annual Report 2017
The Malawian tourism industry has significant gaps relating to its product and service offerings and has underexploited tourism destinations. Compared to many other, to some extent already over-crowded destinations, there has been relatively little tourism development, which means there are substantial opportunities for new players to join the industry and establish unique and sustainable businesses.

Malawi is home to a huge variety of stunning landscapes situated relatively close together, which make it perfect for putting together tours and designing 1-3 week itineraries for tourists. Two destinations, Chongoni Rock-Art Area and Lake Malawi National Park, have even been internationally recognised by United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) on the World Heritage List. It is interesting to note that Namibia has the same number of recognised World Heritage sites, but these appear much higher on the international tourism economic rankings. UNESCO has also documented the potential for sustainable tourism development in Lake Malawi National Park.

Additionally, 6 other destinations in Malawi are being considered for World Heritage status. Consequently, Malawi is a considerably unique and under-exploited destination!

“Malawi ‘the Warm Heart of Africa’ is the destination for anyone looking for untapped, unspoiled and undiscovered variety of attractions in terms of mountains and valleys, nature, the people and their diverse cultures, the lake with fresh water and more than a thousand unique fish species that cannot be found anywhere in the world, and of course, a conducive environment for business meetings. Now that tourism is on the priority national development agenda of government, operators in the sector can take advantage of these opportunities to proactively and responsibly respond the growing local, domestic and international market.”

Starting Tourism Businesses in Malawi

Why set up your own business?

Setting up your own business means you will be a critical part in a small organisation rather than being a small part of a large organisation, providing enormous opportunities for professional development.

If you research correctly and plan properly, being an entrepreneur can potentially give you freedom and control over the way you live your life.

As an entrepreneur, you also have an opportunity to make a difference to your staff, your local area, and to the industry and country as a whole.
Research & Business Plan

Malawi has a huge amount to offer and substantial tourism potential. The following section will help you ensure that your business idea will be competitive for the tourism market in Malawi and how to plan for business success.

Research

When researching your business, stay connected to the others in that sector. Learn, exchange knowledge, and work together. One of Malawi’s major advantages in terms of business is the size of the country and the size of the industry. Compared to Kenya, Tanzania and South Africa, the network of tourism professionals is small. Therefore, if you are professional, proactive and utilise your networks, you can relatively easily find help from someone with more experience than you.

When doing your research keep the following in mind;

Cultural differences
Research what your target market will be, and think critically about why they would choose to use your service or product over another. Keep in mind that you should consider not only your target market’s nationality, but also their gender, age, social (financial/educational) background, religion, travel group (singles, couples, families, friend, relatives, etc.), travel purpose (leisure, business, visiting friends and relatives, study tours), etc. What is appealing one tourist may not attract another. Be target-market orientated and authentic while ensuring you will meet customer expectations! If you are targeting the local market, consider how you will offer something to a Malawian client that they do not already have access to?

Understand your destination and traveller expectations by researching, for example:

- Travel bloggers who write about Malawi
- Customer relations sections of online travel agencies and rating platforms (e.g. TripAdvisor)
- Websites of international tour operators
- Tourism source market studies

Standards
How do you ensure you have the highest safety standards possible to ensure that risks are minimised? The licences needed to operate (explained in Part Two) are there to ensure the safety of your clients, and keep in mind that good businesses go beyond what’s necessary. The following are basic examples of the many items that will help clients feel comfortable and reassured on their trip:

- A legally compliant, regularly serviced and well maintained vehicle with professional driver
- Life jackets on a boat
- Clean drinking water
- Easily accessible First Aid kit and fire extinguisher
Fair, honest and reliable suppliers and service providers are valuable! If you are thinking about setting up your own business, you also need to think about building a reliable network of people who can ensure that the quality of your product is competitive, unique and consistent to your market.

In a land locked country, your suppliers may have difficulty maintaining the consistent availability of goods and services. Always have a plan B or even a plan C!

Have you thought about using your understanding of the tourism industry to become an industry supplier? Here are some basic ideas from tourism professionals:

- Designing local, sustainable curio products that follow international fashion trends
- Providing clean toilets and a cold drink on the road between tourist destinations
- Providing activities for self-catering cottages
- Providing mobile wellness/ spa activities in tourism destinations
- Providing authentic community-based activities attached to a well-managed project

Everybody has a role to play in the experience that tourists take home with them!
Business Plan

You need a well-researched business plan to ensure that your aims are clear and that anybody interested in your business can quickly understand your vision.

Research! Research! Research! Your business will fail without it.

Business plans vary in length and detail. Keep it short, don’t be overwhelmed – the business plan will be a guide for you that you can keep coming back to and adjusting if necessary.

Example content of a business plan:

- Executive summary – introduction to the business plan, short paragraph
- The business, its services and an administrative plan
- Marketing Plan – strategy, situation analysis, target customers, pricing strategy, competitive analysis
- Operational plan – legal environment, physical location, facilities, equipment, suppliers
- Financial – summary of financial needs, loans, sales forecasting, break-even analysis
- Appendix of relevant documents (Malawi tourism sector, maps, photos of location, industry studies)

A business plan should formally respond to the following questions that you should ask yourself when designing your business …

- What do tourists need?
- What makes an experience really special for a tourist?
- What is being done already? What is working? Why is it working?
- What isn’t working? Why isn’t it working?
- What can I add? Why is my business idea different? What will be my Unique Selling Point (USP)?
- What does Malawi have that other countries don’t have?
- Who is my target market? Are they local, domestic or international tourists?
- Have I tested the idea on my target market?
- How can I ensure I am on the right path before I invest everything?
- How much money will I need? How long before I break-even and turn a profit?
- How can I start small and then grow when business improves?

One of the most successful lodges on the Southern Lakeshore runs on 85% of domestic and local tourists – tourism isn’t just internationals!

Entrepreneurship in Tourism
Tourism Registration

To be able to apply for a tourism licence with the Department of Tourism (DoT) you must have already completed Step 1 as described in this brochure. You also need to show that your business model has been proven financially and that you have positive activity in your bank account.

Your tourism licence will fall under one of the five headings of the table below:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Accommodation</th>
<th>Restaurant</th>
<th>Events</th>
<th>Tour Operator/Travel Agent</th>
<th>Car Hire</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

To register your business with the Department of Tourism, you will need to visit the local District Council office and be referred to your relevant Tourism Officer.

You will need the following:

- Certificate of Incorporation
- Articles of Association
- Tax certificate with your TPIN number on it
- Bank account statement or profit and loss analysis to prove that there is positive movement in your bank account

They will then organise an inspection of your business to ensure that it adheres to mandatory basic standards. Your business will either pass or fail. If you fail the first inspection, you will be given a list of changes that need to be made and given one more chance to pass. If you do not pass for the second time, you may no longer be allowed to apply. Therefore, it is very important to do your research on the expected standards before you invite the DoT official to visit your business. You can request or find out about the expected standards by reading a copy of the Tourism Act which cannot be found online but should be available through your local Tourism Officer.

Once you are sure you have the relevant documents for each stage, proceed to the nearest relevant authority office and explain what you are hoping to do. They will be able to provide further information regarding the process.

STEP 3
Tourism Essentials, Taxes & Levies, Insurances and Utilities

You now should have organised the following:

- Certificate of Incorporation (business registration)
- MRA registration
- Bank account
- Tourism licence as per above lists
- Relevant district, MBS and government licences for your specific tourism business

Now let’s look at what is needed during the third stage for all tourism businesses:

Tourism essentials
- Malawi Tourism Council membership – this is a condition for getting a Tourism Enterprise Licence. The MTC is the Official Tourism Private Sector Voice in Malawi. Benefits and application form is found here: https://malawitourismcouncil.weebly.com/membership.html

- Tourism Levy: For every client sale your business makes, you need to add a 1% levy on the sale which will be paid to your business by the client. Then your business will remit all of the tourism levy of the previous month to the DoT on or before the 14th of every month. Cheques can be made payable to the Tourism Marketing Fund.

Taxes & Levies
- Please note the Tourism Levy as described above.

- Pay As You Earn (PAYE) (income tax) if you are employing staff: MRA’s PAYE calculator can be found here: www.mra.mw (deadline: 14th of every month)

- Withholding Tax (WHT) is “an advance payment of income tax which is deducted from specific payments”: www.mra.mw/individuals/withholding-tax (deadline: 14th of every month)

- Provisional Tax is “an advance payment of income tax that is made in quarterly instalments”. Taxpayers with seasonal income are required to make arrangements with MRA on the payment of their provisional tax: www.mra.mw/tax-update/provisional-tax

- Value Added Tax (VAT) is a “tax on consumption expenditure”: www.mra.mw/individuals/understanding-value-added-tax (deadline: 25th of every month)

- Fringe Benefit Tax (FBT) is paid “on the taxable values of fringe benefits being provided by an employer to an employee”: www.mra.mw/individuals/understanding-fringe-benefit-tax
Technical, Entrepreneurial and Vocational Education and Training (TEVET) Levy: MRA collects (on behalf of TEVET Authority) 1% of the basic annual payroll paid to employees to fund training. Employers should register with MRA for TEVET Levy: www.mra.mw/large-tax-office/tevet-levy

* It is recommended for taxes to consult the advice of a professional accountant since methods of paying depend on the structure of the business.

Insurances
- Public liability insurance (highly recommended if you are looking for international business partners such as tour operators)
- Vehicle & passenger insurance (compulsory – at least 3rd party)
- Building insurance in case of destruction of a building (optional)
- Workman’s insurance in case of injury of staff at work (compulsory)

It is recommended to contact two or three reputable companies to compare prices and benefits of each companies’ policies.

Utilities for an office, restaurant, events space or accommodation
- Business premises licence, details from the District or City Council
- Fire safety check (extinguishers)
- Waterboard inspection if you are using mains water (Northern Region: www.nrwb.org.mw, Central Region: www.crwb.org.mw, Southern Region: www.bwb.mw)
- Electricity Supply Corporation of Malawi (ESCOM) inspection: www.escom.mw
- Generator licence for any generator above 20 kWh. The licence is available from Malawi Energy Regulatory Authority (MERA): www.meramalawi.mw/index.php/licensing/application-forms/electricity/download/15-electricity/24-electricity-private-generation-registration-form
Funding Options

Depending on your business type, you do not necessarily need a huge amount of capital to succeed. Being rich absolutely doesn’t ensure business success. Work within your means. Your attitude, business plan and strategy are more important than money. However, of course there will come a time where some form of financial investment into the business is needed. This could come from yourself, a business partner, family members, a group of friends, or an external grant or loan.

If you are going into partnership with your business, ensure that you have a written contract between stakeholders to ensure that everyone is protected.

Free advice can often be much more valuable than a lump sum of money.

Many donors offer business development support. You will learn how to make the right choices in your business decisions through calculated trial and error.

Funding from External Sources

Key: You must ensure you have a proven idea and concept before looking for external funding. Finding funding without proving how and why your idea will work is extremely difficult.

- Growth Accelerator is a new programme aimed at helping Malawian entrepreneurs scale up their businesses. They are offering business support and grants of up to USD 40,000: www.growmalawi.com

- The Hub have a Pitch Night Programme where you can pitch your business idea to potential investors. Staying connected with The Hub is highly recommended for up to date news within the SME funding world. See the “Who else can help you?” section for details.

> “Don't believe in wild fantastic stories of instant fame and riches. Instead, plan a course to identify goals and move confidently towards accomplishing them. Once you have an idea, money can be saved from your salary, gifts or pocket money to build a small business into an empire.”

Ekari Mtewa, Author, Financial Discipline and Investments in Malawi

- Keep an eye on relevant funding lists such as the Scotland Malawi Partnership’s funding page: www.scotland-malawipartnership.org/news-events/funding-news

- Be very wary of jumping into a loan agreement – ensure you are not getting yourself into more difficulty in the long term! As Malawi’s inflation is unpredictable and loans come with high interest rates, you could very quickly find yourself in financial difficulty if you are not careful – a targeted approach to funding is crucial!
Who else can help you?

Your networks and relationships are key. After all, we all need to work together to improve Malawi’s overall tourism product and destination marketing so we all benefit!

Government

- Department of Tourism (at your local District Council office)
